

Your capital increases checklist:

- What is your company's valuation before a new investor comes on board?
- What stake does the investor receive in the course of the capital increase?
- Do the remaining shareholders have a say according to the articles of association?
- How strongly are the founding shareholders' rights diluted by the new investment?
- Which majorities or decision-making powers do they forfeit as a consequence of this dilution?