Workplace Mediation, UK

Highlights of our experience:

- Employee returning to work after a period of absence following a grievance being raised against the manager.
- Early intervention mediation where two colleagues working in close proximity were finding it intolerable to work together.
- Employee returning to work having made a number of complaints against their manager.
- Difficulties emerging between a new manager and a long serving employee arising from differences in communication style.
- Team mediation where employees were provided with a staff survey and then worked through a conflict tree to identify the root causes of the conflict, and action plan solutions.
